Farmer's Market and Yard Sale—at Friendship Park

If you missed both events at the Park, you missed some bargains and some really beautiful crafts. A huge shout out to Sandy Mollberg and Connie Story for organizing and running the show. It was a lot of work, but well worth it. The day was gorgeous and everyone was having a good time. All our activities turn into social events whenever our neighbors gather. That's what makes this association so special.

Jim Bain—President
Meadow Wood Farms
Property Owners Assoc.

As I wind down my 4th term as President of the MWFPOA, I feel compelled to reprint the message I wrote as I “retired,” albeit temporarily, from the Board two years ago. I’ve reprinted it for the simple reason that the feelings expressed are still as true today as they were then.

I had the honor of attending my 35th college reunion (now two years ago) at Duke University. More important to me, I had the honor of joining over 100 of my fraternity brothers who had graduated between 1970 and 1979. I had not seen most of these men in 35 years.

I was a little surprised to learn the breadth of successes and failures in marriages, businesses, careers, and physical health. I think I expected that every one of these guys would be doing well and enjoying life, as I am. And many are. There are judges, lawyers, doctors, CEO’s, and one guy who owns the best bar in Durham, NC! Some are in great shape, run every day, play golf, ride horses, hunt, fish, bicycle, whatever. Some are married for the first, second, third, or fourth (he married the same woman twice) time.

But many are not riding the crest of the wave of “success.” Several have beaten cancer. Some are still working at it. Some have broken marriages, bankrupted businesses, or both. But all are still trying, still competing in the game we call life. There are no charmed lives. We all have our ups and downs, our successes and failures.

Here is the honor part – because we are brothers, there were no judgments, just understanding, fairness, and support. We had fun, drank a beer or two, laughed, and told all of the old stories (think of the movie, “Animal House”). It truly was an honor to be among these men.

I believe that associating with others breeds a kind of honor from that association. We have something in common, a shared experience. My years at Duke, my years in the fraternity, my years in the military, even my years on the high school football team, have built bonds with the other men in those groups that I will cherish for the rest of my life.

My years as your President of the MWFPOA are the newest addition to that list. I now share a great experience with so many of my neighbors in MWF. As a result of that experience, we share a kindred spirit. It has been an honor to be a part of this great neighborhood and this great association. For that, I thank you.

I’ll see you around the neighborhood -- Jim

A huge thank you to our efficient, friendly, charming, hard-working outgoing President.

Recycle Your Aluminum Cans

To Benefit MWFPOA Treasury

The recycle point for your aluminum cans is at the front entrance to the Friendship Park on Lake View Drive East. Barrels are provided for that purpose.

Cans that are rinsed, tab tops removed and crushed are our favorites.

Tab tops may go to any charity you know or bring them to meetings to go to Shands Juvenile Kidney foundation.

May Meeting Set to Elect Your MWF Board for 2012/13

It seems like the same people are involved in the volunteer projects, holding office and participating in the activities. While this is true of most groups, this association would love to see more new faces and hear from new voices. Don't wait to be asked. There are several Committees still without Chairs or members. We need and appreciate your help.

If you would like to join the team, contact any board member asap.

The Nominations Are:

Elizabeth Waller—President

Tina Ringfield — Vice President

Dick Woodrome —Treasurer

Connie Story — Secretary

Also at the May Meeting the agenda will include a guest speaker from Trails to Trust. Why is this important to us?? We are surrounded by 600 acres (including the trails behind MWF) of privately owned land. The owner is in his 80's. Should his heirs decide to develop part or all of this land, it will be useful for us to hear about this case study for possibly protecting land from development.

Trails to Trust is an organization to buy and preserve 396 acres of woods fronting on NW 90th Ave., stretching along NW 63rd St. to the back of Golden Hills, and almost to route 225A. This land is currently approved for a 395 lot housing development. They are making it their mission to buy this land and turn it into a private community reserve for riding, hiking and driving carriages to be used by those living in the neighborhood.

More Improvements to Friendship Park

Volunteering is more fun than you think. Meet new neighbors and come away with a feeling of accomplishment and pride

The usual suspects showed up once again to pour a new concrete pad to skirt the pavilion preventing erosion and also one to connect to the shed, making it easier to move the tables and benches to the pavilion for events. Thank you guys for your efforts, we really do appreciate it.

Dick Woodrome, Glen Garnas, Jim Canterbury, John Trinckes and Bill Lammers.

They had to work hard and fast, since concrete waits for no one and is not very forgiving.

You Could Win $100 If You're Present

One of our residents would have won $75 if he had been present at the March meeting.

A drawing was held at the last MWFPOA General Meeting for $75. Since the resident was not present, his winnings were added to the pot along with another $25.

At the next general meeting another name will be drawn to win $100. If that person is not present, names will be drawn until we get a winner who is present.

We will then start the process over in July of 2012. Any time we have a winner, we will start the pot again at $50.

So now it REALLY pays to come to the meetings. See you at the May Meeting, won't we?

Jim

Meet CERT Members—

Every month we will be profiling a CERT member, so that in an emergency you will be able to identify them to give you help or offer to help them as they aid others. All team members have CERT ID cards with photo.

Meet Pam & Wayne Hebert

Pam and Wayne moved to MWF 2 years ago from Maryland's "Eastern Shore" to enjoy the Florida weather and all the "fun" stuff it has to offer. However, Lancaster County PA is where they both grew up and met while attending the same high school. This year they will be celebrating their 23rd wedding anniversary.

Pam has always enjoyed working with animals & people. She started taking First Aid & CPR courses as a counselor to be able to assist with teaching at a Girl Scout horse camp for 6 summers. She then graduated with a degree in Equine Science at SUNY College in New York and became certified in Therapeutic Riding, she was Executive Director at a Therapeutic Riding program in PA for 13 yrs. The program helped people with disabilities experience the benefits of horseback riding. She also trained to become a Special Olympics Coach & continued to keep her First Aid & CPR current.

Pam then worked at a small animal Veterinary Hospital as a Vet Tech for 2 years. The experience at the animal hospital helped her become comfortable with all kinds of animals & procedures. A move to MD enabled Pam to teach able bodied adults & children how to ride horses at a private barn for 8 yrs. The job also included management of 20+ horses, caring for goats, chickens, cats, a mini donkey & whatever else showed up! At that time she also became certified with the American Riding Instructor Association while staying updated with First Aid & CPR.

Now living in MWF and still wanting to be involved with animals & people, Pam started her own local Pet Sitting business. She now has many customers west of Ocala & several in the neighborhood. Joining CERT just made sense to Pam with such a big community of people & pet owners. Pam's pets include 2 cats and 3 finches, but riding her QH "Ayla" throughout the neighborhood is her favorite past time.

Wayne has been self-employed and owned several businesses in the past 20 years. While living in PA and then MD he had a successful (14+ year) horse jump manufacturing business aptly named "Wayne's Jumps". He has since transitioned full time into a successful national online retail sign business (EZSignsOnline.com). With thousands of customers spread out all over the US and several other countries, he keeps busy during the week and gets to "choose" which 12 hours of the day he'd like to work ;-). He considers himself a "jack of all trades and master of none" (refer to his humorous story in the MWF newsletter June 2011).

While not a rider himself, he does designate himself as a "horse husband". If given the choice, he says he does prefer mechanical "horsepower" over the 4 legged variety (which explains his 2 year sprint car racing career while living in PA).

Pam and Wayne both enjoy being actively involved in the MWF community and volunteering when possible. They hope that they never have to use their CERT training in a real emergency, but are ready to help people (and pets too) if the need arises. Look for them at the next community event and say Hi!

Heartfelt Thanks to a Former Marine-

Doug Brock

The year 1966 was a standout year in my life. I graduated from East Carolina College (now University), was commissioned in the Air Force and married my high school sweetheart, Della. Before leaving for Air Force school in Amarillo, Texas, I worked the remainder of that summer driving a Pepsi-Cola truck. We lived in New Bern, N.C, the birthplace of Pepsi and a town rich in history. Settled in 1710 by Swiss immigrants, the town was named after Berne, Switzerland and served as the colonial capital of N.C. My delivery route included the Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station. Sometime later as the Air Force took us from place to place, I realized I was unable to find my 1962 New Bern High School class ring. The ring was thoughtfully designed and had inscriptions denoting much of the town and school history and my initials JDB on the inside. I think it cost about $35.00 in 1962. I decided I must have lost it during one of our many moves.

Recently, we had a call from Ron, a classmate who is planning our 50th high school reunion. He had received an interesting email from a fellow in Wisconsin inquiring about a James Douglas Brock who may have lost his class ring 46 years ago. I called the guy, Rich, and he told me the story of my lost ring. Seems he was stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station in 1966 during the Vietnam War. He found the ring and notified his sergeant who was unable to locate the owner. Rich was afraid the ring had possibly belonged to a fellow Marine who didn't return from Vietnam, where he was about to be stationed. He had far more on his mind than making further attempts to locate the ring's owner. After serving his country in the war, he returned to Wisconsin.

Recently, while going through a box of Marine Corps memorabilia, he realized he still had that ring from 46 years ago. He thought about selling it, but then one day as he was checking some things on the Internet, he came across the news of the 1962 High School reunion coming up this summer and contacted our classmate Ron. What a wonderful conversation I had with Rich, who told me he would be mailing the ring right out to me. I received it on April 5th. Even though it no longer fits my ring finger, it was nice to see my "old friend" again. The most significant part of the story though is about someone taking the time and effort to locate the rightful owner. Would I have taken the easy way out and sold it for its gold content? It would have been easy to justify by telling myself I didn't know the owner and that it would be difficult to find him. It reminded me of the bank commercial where a neighbor is raking her yard, sees another neighbor needing help with her yard and goes to help. Someone walking by sees what is happening and is inspired to also do a good deed for someone. Doing the right thing becomes "catching". Although I try to do the right thing, too, I hope now I am willing to be helpful....even when it may prove to be inconvenient and costly.

If a Snake Bites Your Horse.....Contributed by Wayne Hebert

Only a few species in the U.S. are poisonous. They are (shown on back page): the Copperhead, Cottonmouth or Water Moccasin, several varieties of Rattlesnakes and in the southeast, the Coral Snake. Knowing what to do in the event of a bite could mean the difference between the life and death of your horse.

Rattlesnakes are the most likely species to strike, but, for the most part a snake doesn't bite unless you threaten him. When trail riding watch the path ahead of you, and avoid stepping over logs and going through thick brush where you can't see what's ahead of your horse.

Several factors that determine the severity of the venom's affect on the horse include: the size of the snake, the size of the horse, location of the bite, the health of the horse, and the time it takes to get treatment for your horse. As a rule larger snakes have more venom and, of course, the smaller the horse the more harm can be done by the poison. A foal is more likely to suffer severely than a full grown horse. The most dangerous place for a horse to be bitten is on the face, because the swelling from the venom can cause suffocation. If the nostrils swell shut, a piece of garden hose inserted into the nostril could keep you horse's airway open. If you are trail riding and a poisonous snake bites your horse, do not gallop him home for help. Running will only increase the heart rate, speeding up the horse's blood circulation, and sending the poison throughout the body at a faster rate. Keep your horse calm and walk him home. On a trial ride, the bite will probably be on the horse's leg, which is not normally fatal. The horse is such a large animal that the venom is reduced by the time it reaches vital organs. Still, you should get vet help as soon as possible.

First aid until the vet arrives is to treat the bite like a puncture wound by washing it with soap and water and applying an antibacterial medication. The old advice of cutting an X and sucking out the blood is no longer recommended for horses or humans, because it increases the danger of infection. An antivenin is available, but very expensive. The vet's treatment includes a tetanus shot and antibiotics. He might also add drugs to combat inflammation such as steroids. The vet will look for signs of shock and treat accordingly. Before he arrives, he might suggest you give the horse banamine or bute to reduce the swelling, especially if the horse has trouble breathing, or has obstructed airways. Don't forget the option of inserting a length of garden hose. You might ask him to show you this procedure in advance of any emergency.
