It's been an honor

As I wind down my second and final term as your association President, I reflect on all the wonderful experiences this opportunity has brought. I have met so many wonderful people in our neighborhood. I'll admit trying to do our work as an association during the COVID pandemic was a challenge. However, your executive board and committee members put their shoulder to the wheel and kept things rolling. Now, as we get back to normal, we have many new opportunities ahead.

Our neighborhood is truly a wonderful place to live. Others must agree, as we see new homes being built, new neighbors moving in, and folks improving their properties. Part of what makes this a nice place to live is your association. They do a lot of work in the background making sure bills are paid, property is maintained, and planning fun activities. It is truly your association; it does not function without the volunteers who give of their time to the benefit of the rest of us. Being President has been a wonderful experience because we are blessed with such great volunteers. I can't say enough thanks to all of the committee folks, executive board members, party organizers, food preparers, the always helpful neighbors, and everyone else that lent a hand when it was needed. Each person brings great ideas and willing hands that contribute immeasurably to your neighborhood association.

One way you can contribute is to come to association meetings. They are only every other month on the third Tuesday. Starting this month, we will be having a drawing to reward those who attend association membership meetings. All our members' names go into a container. We will draw out a name, and if you are at the meeting, you win a $25 cash prize. If you are not at the meeting, the prize rolls and is combined with the prize at the next meeting, where we will draw again. It pays to come to our meetings! We will also be having a drawing in July for cash prizes from the pool of those who have joined the association or renewed their membership for the next association year that starts in June. It pays to join!

Some of our committee members have moved on to other interests and this leaves openings for you to step up and help. We need your ideas, your interest, and your help. Please consider running for office or joining your neighbors on one of our committees. There's an opening for President, as I am not running for office again due to other commitments. I will still be involved with the association as a volunteer, but I won't be able to perform the duties you would expect me to as President.

I have had lots of different experiences with associations and clubs through the years and I can say without reservation that this has been the most fun and enriching opportunity I have had. It has been an honor to be the President of your association. For that, I thank you.

I'll see you around the neighborhood.

Mr. President, it has come to my attention that we're having some challenges with the economy. Given things correctly, we're in a recession, consumer confidence and spending is down, credit is tight, investors are spooked. We need renewable energy, and health care costs are through the roof. Trillions of dollars, not to mention our future, are at stake.

Here's a solution. Give every American a horse. This proposal may not make sense to you but let me give you a little background. First of all, horses in the U.S. are a multi-billion-dollar industry, and that's just at one farm. Have your economic advisors do a little research on the spending around horse ownership. You'd be surprised. Start by visiting the tack and clothing retailers like State Line or Dover. Look at the variety of goods available there. Now consider that every horse owner, especially if it's a woman, is buying not just one or two, but tons of these items. Believe it or not.

The thinking is that if you give every American a horse, starting when they reach the horse-receptive age of 10, you're going to do two things: boost consumer confidence and boost spending immediately. Horses make people feel good, and once Americans all own horses (at the government's expense, of course), they will all logically fall into the pattern that every horse owner succumbs to: accessorizing. For starters, they will need horse-care implements like buckets and muck rakes, hoof picks and curry combs. And then at least basic tack: halter, lead lines, saddle, saddle pad, bridle and bit. But then the fun begins. Zebra print leg wraps. Neon bright fly masks. An assortment of sheets and blankets for all seasons; you've got your cooler, your lightweight blanket, your medium blanket, your heavy blanket. Then there's your stable sheet and your turn out sheet. Also, your hoodie, and tail wrap items. And that's just the clothing for the horse. Don't get started on the clothing for the rider, even if he or she doesn't show. Since most Americans don't have a basic riding wardrobe, the stores would be swamped for jeans, boots, breeches, T-shirts, dozens of pairs of cute boot socks, and the ubiquitous ball cap. Tell the retailers to get ready. It'll be Christmas all year long.

Now let's talk about support industries. In addition to the usual veterinarian and farrier expenditures, people also give their horses chiropractic care, massage, and acupuncture, not to mention buying more beauty products for their horses than they do for themselves. All those professions and industries will benefit. Naturally there will be a big spike in hay and grain demand, so the farmers will be happy too. You see, that's the secret to jump-starting consumer spending through this stimulus package. People will spend money on their horses when they won't spend money on anything else. Your advisors might say there's a catch. Aren't we paying the price, in global warming, due to the large number of livestock animals we currently have? They produce all that methane!

Ah, Mr. President, here's the real beauty of this idea. When you introduce the Methane-Assisted Natural Unrefined Renewable Energy plan (M.A.N.U.R.E. ), you'll be a hero for coming up with an alternative, renewable, home-grown source of clean energy. Just challenge the energy gurus to come up with a methane gas collection system that can harness all the "natural resource" produced by all those horses to power our cities. Talk about shovel ready projects: M.A.N.U.R.E. fits the bill!

Health care costs will go down, too, as everyone spends time working, riding and hanging out with their horses, which will automatically make them healthier. (Don't tell the docs, but most horse owners already get their own basic healthcare from their vet.)

So this proposed stimulus package has many great benefits from creating more jobs, increasing spending, reducing energy consumption, improving health benefits, and most importantly, creating an environment where people feel good and will get outside to enjoy the fresh air and camaraderie with their friends and neighbors.

SPRING FLING April 23rd

The Spring Fling was a HUGE success! Both new and familiar faces brought lots of food. Everyone got to introduce themselves and after eating outdoor games were enjoyed by all. You will NOT want to miss the next neighborhood get together.

Hello neighbors! We are your new Activities Co-chairs

Kim Cooper - My husband, Mark, and I moved to Meadow Wood Farms at the end of January, 2022. We previously resided in Jacksonville, Florida for the last 15 years. Mark is retired from the US Navy and I retired almost two years ago from the Corporate world. We feel blessed to have met so many wonderful people since moving into the neighborhood.

Carol English - My husband, Steffin, and I have lived and worked in the Ocala area for the last twenty-six years. We raised four boys and are now reaping the rewards via our grandkids! We moved to Meadow Wood Farms, four months before Covid started. We are now enjoying making friends and meeting our neighbors in this beautiful community. We have enjoyed recent events, held at Friendship Park, and are so looking forward to hearing back from residents with ideas and activities they would like to enjoy.

Now down to business. We have some thoughts in mind for future events, which include both event type activities and the formation of clubs. We also plan to keep the community favorites. Before we take action, we need your help in gathering information on what you would enjoy and like to partake in. First off, please let us know how many children, if any, you have in the following age groups:

< age 5 _____, Age 5 to 10 _____, Age 11 to 15 _____, Age 15 to 18 _____, None _____

Now, let's talk about clubs. Would you be interested in meeting other people with the same interest or maybe learn something new. Would you like to meet weekly, monthly or a couple of times a month with friends. Currently the Equestrian club and Line Dancing club exist and will continue to thrive. Below is a list of other potential clubs. Please check off which you might be interested in. Our goal is to get people together with similar interests from which a club can be formed.

Crafts:

One idea we had for an event is to bring in a food truck so people can skip cooking one night and enjoy dining out without having to drive very far. You can eat under the pavilion or take it to go. If you would you would be interested in this please let us know.

Yes, to Food Truck _____

Please fill out the above and send to Kim at kandmcooper@comcast.net or Carol at caenglish55@gmail.com. You may also bring this completed form with you to the General Association Meeting on May 17th at the Park Pavilion. We look forward to creating new activities and seeing you in the neighborhood!

Out & About – African Queen?

Ok, now this was an adventure. Early in April, your esteemed President, Jim Thomas was asked to help crew a boat for a cruise through a few of Florida's inland lakes. This isn't just any boat. It's a steamboat! Think African Queen and you'll have some idea of the craft. Jim asked Dave Kane and me if we might want to help. It sounded like a fun day so we each said "sure – why not?"

Departing MWF about 6:30 a.m. we arrived in Tavares to meet our Captain and launch the boat. We were to be a part of a sort of steamboat regatta. With seven classic steamboats in the array, we pulled away from the docks and sputtered the short distance from the west end of Lake Dora, through the Lake Dora Canal into Lake Eustis. From there, we steamed north along the western shore of Eustis to the mouth of Haynes Creek. At that point we headed up the creek. And yes, we were without a paddle. Our destination for this part of the cruise was the small residential community of Bonfire Mobile Village, Florida. Adjacent to the locks between Lake Eustis and Lake Griffin, this lovely little community of mobile homes and kind souls welcomed us to a picnic lunch celebrating our arrival. The whole community turns out for this annual event, hosting the crews of the steamboats with pulled pork BBQ, sides, and desserts as an encouragement for the boats to come each year.

Crowding all seven of the boats, plus a couple of other ill-timed arrivals into the locks was not an easy task, but we got it done with minimal angst between the boats. As you might suspect, each boat is a pride and joy for its owner, so bumping one another in the locks was carefully avoided – mostly. As the least "cared for" craft of the bunch, we were carefully watched. Exiting the locks, each boat found a berth at a creek side home/dock where locals in golf carts waited to carry us to the community park, right back alongside the locks. After the sumptuous lunch, we again boarded our boats and continued up Haynes Creek to Lake Griffin, where we came about and headed back the way we had come. It was a long day but worth every minute. Jim Thomas found himself quite at home alongside the small steam engine and steam boiler, thoroughly enjoying being in charge of those contraptions and the steam whistle and horns. Skippers Kane and Bain handled the wheel and navigation for the greatest part of the trip. In short, it was a blast!

I've lived in Central Florida for 16 years now and had no idea that these lakes and several others are connected. In fact, you can put your boat in on Lake Apopka and travel all the way to Jacksonville through these lakes, the Oklawaha River, and finally the St. Johns to the Atlantic. It is a true marvel of Florida and another great reason to be...Out & About.

Jim Bain
